

INTERVIEWS

- Attend our Interviewing 101 Workshop.
Learn best practices and pointers that will help you prepare for an interview.
- Research the employer.
Use tools like LinkedIn, the company website, and Vault to understand what the company does, their culture, their goals, or recent developments. This can help you stand out in an interview.
- Be able to articulate who you are and what you have to offer.
What are your interests, personality, skills, and values? If you're not sure, use a tool like FOCUS or O*Net through the our website to see your results.
- Prepare your interview attire.
Take stock of what you have in your closet and what you may need to purchase or borrow to make the best impression. See detailed tips on our website.
- Choose stories that show your skills.
Many interview questions are behavioral, asking you to talk about a time when you had to juggle multiple priorities, troubleshoot when things went wrong, handle conflict with a coworker, etc. Look over your resume to brainstorm examples of stories you might want to tell in an interview that would reflect your approach to a variety of scenarios. Use the STAR technique (situation-task-action-results) to organize your thoughts in the interview.
- Seek out opportunities to practice.
You can practice interviewing online or in person to pinpoint your interviewing strengths and areas for improvement. Then, you can start looking for opportunities to speak with employers about possible jobs or internships at career fairs, interviews, and other networking events.
- Be prepared.
Arrive early, bring extra copies of your resume, know where you're headed and where to park, have a pen and padfolio to write down names of your interviewers, and have a list of questions prepared that you would like to ask. This is your chance to see if the organization is a good fit.
- Schedule an appointment.
Make an appointment with our career advisors.

You can do it!
